

MAN IS THE MEASURE OF ALL THINGS

Man, the lone creature on earth that is built with emotions, morality and culture. We act and think as unique that no other species can reciprocate. It means that the uniqueness of man is something more than what we think that throughout the course of time, man have created an incomparable distinction between other animals.

Our daily experiences that time have taught us so much about man while we tend to forget what the outcome will be of what is the true conception of man. Man, by nature is creative in their own way. It is the curiosity that drives a man to be creative that is resulted from experiences that motivates them to think things outside of the box. A creative man is considered as someone who uses its imagination in order to make changes in things that exists. To think things beyond our imagination that resulted from unexplainable output that are preceded with reasoning and decision making.

Man is unique in a sense that we are built with the capability to control things in our environment, yet we are still evolving and striving for growth to learn from the past to create new beginnings. Hence, humans are the most advanced emotionally and intellectually.
